

Every where you turn here there seems to be a subliminal billie, which depending on how you look at it is either very disturbing or very very disturbing!! But either way quite annoying and I'd avoid the ^{of} if I were you.

12:37am - Mad's still searching for her lens cap and now Iain is giving us life lessons! All in all for too much information to be shared!!!

I guess I'm classed as the innocent little fresher around here seeing as how all the DOGS are calling me 'Helen the fresher'. NOT sure how true it is seeing as how I'm not the youngest but I suppose I am the only first* year - am thinking it's not a good position to be in though. Am starting to get slightly scared though judging by some of the conversations. NOT good! *NB: not finest as I first read it. Ian

"What flavour was this?" Stuart 1:18 ~~pm~~ am. Tim is making tea. Ian is having problems deciding which colour milk to drink ("Well - white, of course") but he's obviously not girly enough to understand. Slightly deficient in the brest department, methinks, if he is to be thought girly, but he's manly enough to avoid confusion. Must be the subliminal willy.

The above has nothing abusive. I can't retort. Bugger. Ian 01:25am "Where's my lens cap" - Mad

01:26am Jess becomes popular when she goes to make toast with "Anchor butter. Mmmmm..... toast!